Actions Speak Louder Than Words

People who actually care about the environment and preserving the natural beauty of our town would not blanket the landscape with a tidal wave of signage that is as unsightly as it is self-serving.

It would appear that any open space is fair game for the small but well-funded YDowntown contingent, with the latest barrage of anti-Mahackeno slogans appearing overnight in front of vacant houses, on roadway medians and even in front of a graveyard.

Actions speak louder than words, and despite the new variations on their theme, YDowntown's true message remains loud and clear: NIMBY.
